MAY HAVE TO CALL MORE MEN

Quota May Not Be Obtained from the Additional 500 Registrants

WORK GOING ALONG SLOWLY

Doubt was expressed Wednesday evening by a member of the exemption board of the Fifth District of being able to obtain the remainder of the quota from this district from the 500 registrants being examined this week. On Wednesday an additional 200 men had been summoned for examination and of this numbr 50 failed to put in appearance. Today the final hundred is being gone over, and then the board will have another siege of examining papers, in order to determine who is eligilbe for service and who should be exempt.

The indications now point to continued sessions for a number of days, for the detail work is heavy in connection with the selection of men for service. Just how soon the board will accomplish its work none of the members dare to say. They really do not know. They do know they will have to continue sessions and call registrants until the full quota of the district has been obtained. If this requires the calling of additional men, this will mean at least another two weeks to the work already under way.

However, in spite of these delays the board members are of the opinion that they can clean up before the first of October, the date set for the final call to all drafted men to report.

The work of examination in other districts of the county is well under way, but it will take at least a couple of weeks before it can be completed.

D. M. M'CLOSKEY WILL AID IN EXEMPTION WORK

Announcement was made in Harrisburg on Wednesday at the headquarters of the state board having in charge conscription matters, of the appointments of persons to take appeals from the local draft boards to the district boards in the name of the provost marshal. Among the appointments made were those from Washington county, David M. McCloskey, of Charleroi, being appointed to represent the provost marshal in the Fifth District. Other appointments are: James F. Eagleson, Washington, First District; J. E. Paul, Washington, Second District; Dr. J. C. Kistler, Canonsburg, for the Third District, and David R. Reese, Ellsworth, for the Fourth District.

THESE BOYS WANTED TO JOIN THE ARMY

The Greensburg boys, Eugene Sheetz, aged 10, and Kenneth Slatek, aged 9, are back home after a very trying experience. The boys wanted to join the army, and left home last Saturday, one of them carrying a small American flag and the other an army blanket. The walked to Mt. Pleasant, where they solicited a ride to Belle Vernon, and from there they went to Monessen. At the latter place they called at the home of Mrs John O'Brien. Footsore and weary they were glad to get a meal and a bed. Mr. Sheetz was notified of the boys' whereabouts, and he came over and took the youngsters home.

PLEASED WITH SOLDIER LIFE

Charleroi Boy Writes of his Experience with the Regulars

ADVISES OTHERS TO ENLIST

Gettysburg, Pa., Aug. 16, 1917—Editor aMil—I am writing to you and the people of Charleroi to let you know how army life is, and also to encourage some of the young men of the town to enlist in the service of their country, at least for duration of the war. I am at the Gettysburg camp with the 58th Infantry of the Army. There are six regiments of Infantry here, all told about 12,000 men. Our routine of duty begins at 5:30 a. m., when we are called with reveille at 6 o'clock. Breakfast is served at 6:15, after which we do police duty in cleaning up the camp. After that we all march to the big field, stripped to the waist for our morning exercise. We then come back to camp and drill from 8:15 to 9:30, then take a rest of 10 minutes, after which we continue the drill until 11:30. Then we return to the camp and after a short rest dinner is served at 12 o'clock. We are at leasure until 2 o'clock, when we assemble for drill, with recall at 4 o'clock. Then we are through until 5 o'clock, when retreat is sounded. Supper at 6:15, and then we are done for the day. We have to be in bed by 11 o'clock.

Every soldier takes his turn at washing dishes and waiting on tables, and also of keeping the camp in order. I like the life, as it puts some "pep" in me, as well as builds me up. Although I have only been here a little over three weeks I know I have learned a great deal about army

TRANSPORTATION AND MEAL TICKETS ARRIVE

Washington county may not send any of its drafted men to Camp Sherman at Chilli othe, Ohio, next Wednesday. At a joint meeting of the Boards held in Washington about ten days ago it was agreed that the names of men selected for the new National Army would not be published until all of the quotas of the several districts had been obtained. Not one district has completed its quota, and it is a matter of doubt whether any of them will have so far completed their work by Monday or Tuesday in order to give the list for publication.

Of course if the government insists that men be sent on that date each board can secure enough men from among those already passed to make up the number, but so far definite orders have not been received. President Watson, of the Fifth District Board, has received meal tickets and transportation blanks, which will be given to the men prior to their departure.

The Board will notify the men selected to be ready within 24 hours. Then a second notice is sent to mobilize at Donora, the headquarters preparatory to going away. While at headquarters under mobilization the men are under government supervision. Their meals and accommodations will be furnished by the Board, and when all is in readiness they will be put in charge of one of their number, who will handle transportation and meal tickets, and will deliver the detail to the commandant of the camp to which the men are assigned. Men summoned for mobilization at Donora can take their meals at home if they so desire, but they must hold themselves in readiness to move on short notice.

President Watson does not know when he will receive orders to have the selected men mobilize at Donora, none having been received up until Thursday morning.

ASK RECEIVERSHIP FOR ROYAL ARCANUM

A bill in equity was filed in the United States District Court at Boston on Wednesday, asking for the appointment of a receiver for the Royal Arcanum, a fraternal insurance organization. The petitioners aver the funds of the organization are impaired by doubtful investments and the loss of a large number of members. This is the second proceeding of the kind started against the society, a former proceeding having been dismissed because it was not brought in the proper manner.

SOME PRELIMINARY WORK AT LOCK FOUR

Government engineers are doing some preliminary work at Lock No. 4, prior to beginning the construction of the new dam. The rough edges of the broken portion of the dam are being removed, and other preparations made so that when the work of construction is once under way it can go on in an uninterrupted manner. Already a large amount of timber has been received at the lock, several car loads already having been unloaded, which will be used in the cribbing work. Several flat loads of stone have also been stored on the beach below the lock, while many tons of spikes are already in storage, which will be used when construction work begins. Just how soon this work will be gotten under way is not announced, but it is hardly likely that a great deal will be done before next spring.

OPERATORS ARE DIVIDED ON PRICE

Big Operators are Satisfied With Figure Fixed by the President

CONTRACTS TO BE OBSERVED

There is a difference of opinion among coal men now in session in Washington City, as to the order of President Wilson fixing the price of coal. It is said the large operators are in favor of the order, while the smaller operators, whose cost of production is much heavier is in favor of making a protest. The line of division between the two factions is very pronounced, and it is difficult to say what the outcome will be.

In the meantime an official order was issued from the office of the coal administrator at Washington on Wednesday, to the effect that bona fide contracts, enforceable by law, and made prior to the 21st of August, will not be affected by the President's price order. This official statement was made in response to hundreds of inquiries to government officials as to the status of contracts already on the books of operators. However, those operators who have been disposing of their coal on the open market will have to conform to the order of the President fixing the price of bituminous coal at $2 per ton.

In the meantime it is likely that steps will be taken to have this order modified somewhat by operators. this phase of the situation to be taken up at a meeting which will be held some time next month.

The government officials promise to keep a close watch on contracts, and if there is any attempt to evade the order now in force, it is stated a way will be found to check such abuses.

The wagon loaders are still doing business, but eventually the President's order is going to have a serious effect on their trade, because of the high costs he is compelled to assume in producing and loading his coal.

MOVEMENT OF TROOPS DELAYED

Orders Countermanded Directing Units to Entrain for South

TRANSPORTATION THE CAUSE

Orders for the Tenth Regiment, National Guard, now a part of the Fifty-sixth Infantry Brigade, Twenty-eighth Division, to entrain for Augusta, Ga., on Thursday, and which had been issued on Tuesday were later in the day cancelled. NOT ONLY the Tenth, but the Sixteenth and the Eighteenth regiments were held up by the order, although the Eighteenth had its baggage loaded in preparation for embarkation for Camp Hancock.

While no reason was given in the telegram countermanding the orders, it is given that the railroads were not in shape to handle so large a contingent of troops at this time because of lack of cars. However, this condition is expeceted to be remedied shortly, and that all of the regiments will soon be on the way south.

Word from Camp Hancock says that the details now on the ground are fast getting the grounds in shape, cleaning away the underbrush and other growth found on the site. The camp is well situated and while [illegible] they are favored with [illegible] which makes the [illegible] the men very comfortable.

In the meantime preparations for the departure of the troops from Pennsylvania continues. The war department is anxious to get the men on the ground that the real training may get under way. All of the troops in Pennsylvania have been mobilized since the 15th day of July and valuable time is being lost by the delay in getting to points of concentration. For this reason it is believed that movements, in spite of the cancellation of orders, will soon be under way.

LOSES EYE AS RESULT OF AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Louis Cholfont, of Donora, an employe of the Donora Construction company, was injured in an automobile accident in Webster Wednesday evening, and as a result had to have his left eye removed a few hours later at the Memorial hospital, in Monongahela.

Cholfont and a number of other workmen were on their way home from Monessen, where they are employed by the Donora Construction company in improvement and repair work on the Monessen streets. When the car reached Webster, it skidded and went over the bank, Cholfont being thrown through the windshield. A piece of the broken glass penetrated his left eye, and he was at once taken to the hospital, where it was found necessary to remove it, the operation being performed by Dr. Lynch. The water boy, who was a member of the party, was thrown about twenty-five feet when the auto went over, but escaped without injuries. The car was considerably damaged.

CLEAN FOOD ESSENTIAL.

Wild animals eat their food raw, never wine flesh or what it becomes tender with age. This latter habit is one of the weasel's. They kill quite liberally of their prey when the opportunity offers and then allow it almost to decay before they feed upon it. Primitive man hunted and devoured his food much like the lower animals, says Dr. Samuel G. Dixon in his weekly health talks.

Later in the history of man he learned to make fire and cook his food, and it is now quite evident from what we find in the Indian mounds that it became the custom, for instance, of the American Indians to have great clam bakes on the Atlantic coast. Sometimes in these mounds we find bones of deer, showing that they had more than one kind of foodstuffs.

As relics of a still later age, we find in the mounds various little implements that were evidently used for handling and serving the food.

This begins to approach conditions in the present state of civilidation that we now find in the large centers of population. Thousands of people make their sole livelihood preparing food for the table and taking care of the dishes and the serving of the food from the small boarding-houses to the enormous hotels.

In these places the health of those thus employed has not had any police supervision and yet we have known communicable diseases have been the rapid increase and terrible diseases have been passed from one person to another until they have become a great menace to the health, happiness and efficiency of our people.

The State of Pennsylvania fortunately in 1915 succeeded in passing a law that requires those in charge of restaurants, boarding houes, hotels, etc., to look after the health of their people. The law handles it in this way, that it holds the proprietor of those places responsible for employing people who have these dangerous diseases that can be communicated to their customers through the foodstuff and waiters cannot, under our new law, pursue their occupations without satisfy those they propose to serve that they are clean from these diseases the law is trying to prevent being thus spread. The moment this new law was signed by the Governor, a large number of waiters left their places in the Pullman coaches on the railroads and from the great railroad restaurants, as well as from the large and active hotels.

As the great cities grow the ways of living change. There becomes fewer private homes and more places where people live collectively and depend upon central places for eating. Therefore this law is becoming more and more important in regard to these matters, that they may not spread dangerous, yes, deadly, disease through a community.

THE ANSWER OF THE GUNS.

Both utterances and events following the Pope's proposition of peace seems to promise a long continuation of the war. Bulgaria for example, promptly and boldly declared for a peace with "rich annexations and indemnities." Meanwhile Berlin was less outspoken, but while it craftily waited, one of its prominent war lords, supposedly speaking with permission, said in an interview that "we can not sign a peace until we have the Flanders coast, a colonial empire and maritime bases." This would seem to mean that Germany will be ready to make peace until it has conquered more territory, which it expects to keep.

On the side of the allies the Pope's proposal was promptly followed by aggressive offensives and fresh gains. Before any reply was sent the British broke the German lines in the neighborhood of St. Julien and Langemarck, the Italians launched their greatest effort, and the French abandoning the defensive they had maintained at Verdun for eighteen months, plunged forward and drove the Germans out of positions that had cost them tens of thousands of lives that the 800,000 Germans sacrificed in assaults on Verdun have been uselessly wasted. The history of recent months shows that the Germans can no longer gain but must gradually give ground, but they give it slowly and at frightful cost to all concerned. Evidently there can be no peace until the Germans are satisfied that their struggle to win against increasing odds is hopeless, and their unwillingness to recognize this, the inevitable, appears still to be far ahead.

THE GERMAN MENACE.

A great many Americans have not yet grasped the vast menace a triumphant and unleashed Germany would be to America's future.

Ask one of these what would happen if England and France had to [illegible] tremendous power to bear and he would probably answer:

"Oh, I guess the English and French would have to give up some land and money to Germany. Then peace would come and this country would go on very much as before."

Never was there a more mistaken notion. It will never be possible for us to go on as before until Germany is thoroughly beaten, until the notion has been shot out of her that she can rule the world.

Let Germany win this war or let the conflict end in a draw, and at no distant date we shall have to come to grips with her in an Armageddon worse than this one.

After a breathing space she would prepare for war once more. With Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey under her thumb she will have more men, more resources than before.

She will have vast stores of all things needful, so she could not be starved or blockaded. And she would have her eye especially on us.

This will be true because the eyes of German desire wil be cast upon Central and South America rather than Asia. That will bring her into conflict with the Monroe doctrine, and that means conflict with us.

This is not a financial picture. Only the other day the Berlin Post had an article on Mexico as the land Germany hopes to exploit in the future—After the war Germany is going to need raw material from some country with which it will be easy to enter into intimate relations. The one country is Mexico, where German influence is already considerable.

It is easy to see what that means. If we can't prevent it Germany will plant herself firmly on Mexican soil, first by industrial exploitation and colonization, later by boldly grabbing the country. We could then have right at our doors a Germany abundantly prepared by Mexican supplies.

There is only one way to prevent this danger and that is to whip Germany now.

OBJECT OF THE WAR.

President Wilson in his reply to the peace mesage of the Pope, said: "The object of this war is to deliver the free peoples of the world from the menace and the actual power of a vast military establishment controlled by an IRRESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT which, having secretly planned to dominate the world, proceeded to carry the plan out without regard either to be sacred obligations of treaty or the long-established practices and long-cherished principles of international action and honor; which chose its own time for war; which delivered its unheralded and unprovoked attack suddenly, stopped at no barrier, either of law or humanity, swept a whole continent within the tide of its power—not the blood of soldiers only, but the blood of innocent women and children also and of the helpless poor; and now stands balked but not defeated, the enemy of FOUR-FIFTHS OF THE WORLD."

Certain "German-Americans" visiting Germany placed a wreath on the [illegible] Germany placed a wreath on the [illegible] are not American," and the thing was not removed until after the close of effort Ambassador Gerard threatened to take it away with his own hands. And now a lot of these same pretended "Americans" are howling because they are being forced into the armies of the Kaiser. Let them howl. They have their just deserts.

The only hope of peace—real peace—is to be found in the fact that the Allies are—at least in a position to initiate and carry on with great efficiency not only one but several vast offensives, their three years of preparation telling against Germany's preparation of fifty years. France, England and Italy are striking mighty blows for peace and when the American hammer is added the job can not fail of an early completion.

According to a Washington dispatch, "officials of the government have been aware for some time that in the midst of the present struggle Germany has been preparing for the next war." Obviously propositions of peace with vague references to "future" disarmament are a waste of breach. Only by crippling Germany can another war be staved off for any length of time.

Two bribe taking members of a New York City exemption board, after only nine days of investigation and trial, have received two years in the Federal penitentiary in Atlanta. Uncle Sam means business where this war is concerned, as several other varieties of offenders are going to find out when they least expect it.

Under the operation of the Canadian conscription act, it is confidently expected that 100,000 men will be in training in the coming autumn. These, when their time comes, will find a reputation already made for them, at the front, by the 400,000 who have preceded them, and there is no question as to the new men maintaining it.

The transfer of eighty vessels from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic would involve much difficulty, some of them being too big to get through the Welland Canal except in sections, but it would supply a large increase in tonnage where most needed.

This 6% Cumulative Preferred stock, at $82 per share, par value $100, will give you that net income on the money actually invested.

Besides, you will have a stock possessing all the requirements of a sound investment, namely—safety of your money, assurance of dividends and a market on which to sell your shares, if desired.

Safety of West Penn Railways Preferred stock rests upon properties of great value, serving the greatest industrial district in the world with electric light, power and transportation. Independent engineers estimate reproduction cost of railways properties and business in Pennsylvania alone to be in excess of $24,000,000, or considerably more than the par value of outstanding bonds and preferred stock. This does not include the Company's investments in the West Penn Power and Wheeling Traction Companies.

Assurance of dividends is based on the record of earnings of the properties since 1904 and unusually favorable future prospects. The West Penn Railways Company paid regular quarterly dividends on its preferred stock through four periods of industrial and financial depression. Present earnings are more than three times the amount required to pay 6% per annum on the preferred stock.

A market may be secured on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, where West Penn Railways Preferred is listed, and where it is quoted, bought and sold. Any member of the Exchange will readily execute your orders.

Dividends are payable $1.50 per share quarterly by check, mailed direct to stockholders. The stock is free of state tax in Pennsylvania and also of the normal Federal Income tax.

The management of the System is offering West Penn Railways Preferred to its patrons because it believes wider distribution of the stock and a largely increased number of stockholders will result in a closer relationship between the Company and the communities in which it operates.

Payments for the stock may be made in full, at $82 per share, or on monthly instalments. Information about the plan may be obtained on inquiry at any West Penn office. A descriptive circular will be sent to any address, upon application.

NO CARS PLACED FOR COMMERCIAL LOADING

It was stated in Pittsburg on Tuesday that no cars for commercial coal loading were placed on Monday or Tuesday on the Monongahela Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and that Tuesday the same condition existed on the Pan Handle.

It is claimed that it is to the interest of the majority of coal shippers to ship lake coal in preferance to coal for other destinations, because there are contracts in force applying to lake coal, at much higher prices than the price at which coal can now be sold in the open market under President Wilson's order of last week.

It is pointed out also that some coal interests which do not have such contracts have their own lake vessels and upper lake locks, and will thus make a larger profit of shipping lake coal and selling it in the northwest at the prescribed prices than if they sold it at the prescribed price at the mine, since they have a profit both on he lake haul and on the dock operations. There is another advantage in the shipment of lake coal, in that it is all screened, and thus can be sold at $2.25 per ton at the mine, while the slack can be sold at $1.75.

Coal shippers positively asserted on Tuesday that the operation of the priority order in connection with the lake coal would, within a few days, produce a shortage of coal at many manufacturing plants, and that this would result in the manufacturers bring pressure to bear upon Washington, looking to such modification of the order as would keep the industries in operation.

On Top of Thiepval Chateau, King George Listens to Story of its Capture

The story of the capture of the Thiepval Chateau by the British and French is probably one of the most romantic of the war. King George of England is listening to it as one his generals points across the valley where the hottest fighting was carried on. The King is deeply interested as his attitude indicates. He climbed to the top of the height to see with his own eyes how perilous was the ascent of his men. The Germans occupied the plateau and were driven from their strongly fortified position only by the clever manoevering of the Anglo-French troops supported by heavy artillery fire. The King visited the battle explained to him and had a seat brought to the summit of one of the cliffs where he could follow the entire movement.

CATHOLIC PICNIC WELL ATTENDED

Approximately about 2000 people attended the outing held Wednesday at Eldora park, under the auspides of the Catholic Picnic Association of the federated societies of Charleroi. The weather was not altogether auspicious for the occasion, the showers keeping many at home who would have otherwise participated in the festivities of the occasion.

In spite of the weather handicaps however, the various committees went ahead with the program, and those who attended were well repaid. The sport events were interesting to all and were closely contested, furnishing amusement and entertainment not only to the participants, but to the spectators as well. Lunch was served during the day by the L. C. B. A. under the direction of Mrs. McBride, chairman, and the Ladies Auxiliary of the A. O. H., under direction of Mrs. William Feeney.

The winners in the various sport events and the prizes were as follows:

100 yard open race for boys—first, William Pelzer; second. Earl Bruce. Prizes, gold chain and stick pin.

75 yard open race for boys—First, Paul Wagner; second, Wm. Guiler; prizes, catcher's glove and two base balls.

75 yard race for men—open to all—First, John Reilly; second, Lawrence Bailey; prizes, shirt and necktie.

ROAD TO PRICEDALE MAY BE REPAIRED

J. F. Patterson, of the Donora Construction Company, and members of the Streets and Roads Committee of the Board of Trade of Monessen, on Monday went over the Monessen and Pricedale road under instructions from the commissioners of Westmoreland county, with a view of arriving at an estimate of what it would cost to put the two and three-fourths miles of brick road in condition. It is estimated that a good job brick, bern ditches, drains and guard rails would cost approximately $2,000

While the dozen or more brick and curb depressions, or places where the brick have worn out would cost only $300 to $400 for repair, and the guard rail is only a small matter, yet the drainage of the road and general condition is very bad

Under the old system when a man was kept busy with a horse and scoop all the while, the drainage was well attended to, but brick repair has always been needed. Residents of Monessen and Pricedale hope for some definite action on the part of the commissioners, which will result in the road being placed in good repair for winter travel.

TWO GREAT GAMES AT FORBES FIELD

The thousands of western Pennsylvania base ball fans who are wont to spend their holidays at Forbes Field are going to see a very much improved ball club on Labor Day, Monday, September 3, when Hugo Bezdek's rejuvenated Pittsburg Pirates clash with Christy Matthewson's Cincinnati Reds, in morning and afternoon games. The Pirates have been playing an improved article of ball for several weeks past, and with a young and "peppery" combination they promise to make the best of them go some to get decision. Manager Bezdek has no less than four recruits from the Pacific Coast Leage, and they are all comers, both in fielding and batting. The infield is improving, while the outfield will take rank as one of the best in either league. The pitching staff is high class, while the receiving end is well looked after.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR TEACHER'S INSTITUTE

Monday afternoon, September 3, at 1:00 o'clock, the sixty seventh annual session of the Washington County Teachers' Institute will be convened in the high school building at Washington. All details for the meeting are reported as being well in hand, and County Superintendent Crumrine is looking forward to a most successful institute.

There will be no evening entertainments, the unanimous approval to change from the custom of having such sessions, given last year, causing the Superintendent to leave them out again this year. Among the instructors who will take part in the Institute will be Dr. N. B. Bryan, President of Colgate University, Hamilton, N. Y., who is one of the instructors of the Tri-District Institute now being held in Monongahela.

METHODIST LADIES TO KNIT FOR RED CROSS

The ladies of the Methodist Episcopal church have organized a knitting auxiliary to the Charleroi Chapter of the Red Cross. While quite a number of the ladies have already identified themselves with the organization, those who have not and who desire to "do their bit" by knitting are requested to call on Mrs. F. E. Lutes, 409 Crest avenue, or Mrs. Walter Byerly, 327 Meadow avenue, at any time, or on Mrs. D. B. Blaker, 404 Fallowfield avenue, on Tuesdays or Thursdays, for yarn and instructions. The officers of the auxiliary wish to get their organization down to a working basis as early as possible, that they may be able to contribute their share of knit goods to Red Cross work.

SPECIAL TRAIN TAKES ITALIANS TO UNIONTOWN CELEBRATION

A special train, in charge of Conductor Ed. Teeple, and with engineer Krepps at the throttle, carried the local order of Sons of Italy to Uniontown Wednesday afternoon. At California they were joined by another delegation and the run made to Uniontown without further stops. The train left the Charleroi station at 5 o'clock, and returned at an early hour this morning. Both lodges took part in a parade at the Fayette county capital.

ELECTRIC HEATING.

The Way Sweden Used Nature to Solve the Fuel Problem.

Stockholm, up on the Baltic side of Sweden, is a cold proposition for many months. Not only its far north latitude, but its insular situation conduces to cold climatic conditions, for Stockholm is built mostly on islands and is called the Venice of the Baltic.

But the people keep warm during the long winters and do so through electrical heating arrangements. Fuel for individual families was an immense item, but in the last few years the electricians of the country have bent their energies to the development of the natural water power to the end that electricity has become the chief fuel.

Hot water tanks in buildings are heated by electricity from a nearby power plant, and the hot water is sent through the houses much as it goes through similarly heated houses in our cities. The electricity that heats the water is turned on at night when the family retires, and by morning the tank is so hot that the water, pumped automatically through the house pipes, gives the inhabitants all the comforts of steam heat and lasts the whole day.

We build coal fires in our furnaces and have smoke and ashes to contend with. The Swedes press a button that connects the house tank wire with the power plant, and the work is done with no aftermath of cleaning up.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

"On With the Dance, Let Joy Be..."

Snapped at a camp "Somewhere in the United States," where one of the greatest fighting units of the National Army is mobilized, this interesting picture shows a group of guardsmen at the "last waltz"—or is it one-step. At all events it is a red letter day at the camp and probably the farewells must soon be said. The soldiers have been permitted to indulge themselves in a little "social whirl" to tunes hummed by the dancers. The girls have taken full advantage of their liberties.

Exhibit of Canned Goods.

"Every pound of vegetables properly put up for future use, every jar of fruit preserved, add that much to our insurance of victory."—President Wilson.

Are you planning to exhibit canned stuff at the war garden fair in your town, says today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission of Washington, which is cooperating with the Mail in a nation-wide campaign to conserve the food of the country. To help you in this work the Commissoin will send any reader of this paper free its canning and drying manuals for a 2-cent stamp to pay postage. Write to the Commission at 210 Maryland building, Washington, D .C.

Spiced fruits are always acceptable, says the bulletin, which in today's lesson tells you how some of the work is done.

Plums.—Wash the plums and pick a few holes in the skin with a pin. Boil the sugar, vinegar and spices in the same proportion as for peaches all together for about five minutes, then add plums and stew until tender. Pour hot plums in heated jars, fill up with hot syrup in which they were stewed, put on rubber and seal tops.

Ripe Cucumbers.—Take large ripe cucumbers, yellow but firm, cut into strips the size of one's index finger, and about 3 inches long. and parboil to take away the rank flavor. It is suggested that blanching in boiling water for 3 to 5 minutes and dipping in cold water might replace parboiling. Then treat exactly like peaches.

Watermelon Rind.—Pare off green part, leaving only the white, and cut into pieces about an inch and one-half or two inches square. Parboil as mentioned for cucumbers and then treat exactly like peaches.

What's in a Name?

"What a narrow street that is!" said the visitor being shown about the suburban town by a citizen.

"Yes, it is narrow," replied the citizen.

"And in wretched condition. See the holes in the pavement!"

"Yes, it looks bad."

"And dirt everywhere. What is the name of that street?"

"That's Grand avenue."—St Louis Post-Dispatch.

STORY OF A PAINTING.

The Change the Artist Made in "The Spirit of Seventy-six."

"The Spirit of Seventy-six"—the famous drum and fife trio—came from the brush and genius of Archibald M Willard.

The artist emerged from overalls and a Wellington (O.) wagon shop. A picture called "Pluck No. 1," displayed in a Cleveland art dealer's window, attracted the attention of the discriminating and paved the way to a kind of partnership with James H. Rhodes through whose suggestion the "Seventy-six" picture was begun.

In its early stages this picture was called "Yankee Doodle," and it was first planned along semi-comic lines. "But one day," declares Mr. Willard, "I caught a gaze in the eye of an old man who posed for the central figure who was serious, and it was finished." [illegible] what a tribute this was for, and I could go no further. The real picture was everything else. I made it over and painted it again."

The old man whose flashing eyes inspired the courage of our forefathers was Rev. Daniel Ward [illegible] minister of Derby Plains.

This picture was only by the interest [illegible] was prevented from becoming [illegible] by the destruction—Everybody knows.

THE BATTLE OF LIFE.

What a Man Should Have and Be at the Age of Thirty-five.

Jack Lait says in the American Magazine:

"At thirty-five a citizen should have a wife and children, he should have a permanent trade, business or profession, he should own a home; he should have money in bank and a commensurate endowment policy half paid off he should be through with experimenting and on his way, realizing the dreams he dreamt when he had time to dream, walking over the paths he laid in the road building years, hiking on his second wind beyond the point to which he laboriously strained his way theretofore

"Youth is a tonic and its manifestations are grit and gameness, hope and yearning, ambition and hard tackling, energy and pep and good as new recoveries and gay times and extravagances But youth is a bargain commodity—priceless to own, cheap to buy.

"'He's only a boy,' says the world, and he goes at fifty cents on the dollar.

"Therefore youth is the time to invest, and sometimes later comes the time to collect. Somewhere is the turning peak. I think it is marked '35.'"

Magnificent Kaieteur.

One of the greatest natural wonders in the world is the falls of Kaieteur, in British Guiana. The valley through which the river flows, below the falls is quite impassable, and probably no one has ever reached the bottom of the fall. The fall is 741 feet high more than four times the height of Niagara, more than three times the height of Bunker Hill monument, 200 feet higher than the Washington monument and 300 feet higher than St Peter's dome. A smooth but rapid river, nearly 400 feet wide, flows quietly to the brink and turns quietly downward. In its fall it breaks into soft white mist and reaches the bottom in a chaos of seething clouds. There is a gentle roar. Only now and then, from the hidden caverns at the bottom, a deep, thunderous growl arises that gives some hint of the forces contending there.

A Pacifist.

At the age of three years Reginald was already a celebrated coward. Particularly he was afraid of all four footed animals There was talk in the family of adopting a dog.

"Would you like to have a dog, my son?" said the proud parent

"No," said Reginald.

Somewhat later Reginald returned to his father's side Evidently he had been turning [illegible] his mind the proposition recently submitted

"I'd like to have a dog," said he, "if I could have one with his mouth shut."—New York Post.

A Poisonous Frog.

People in general look upon all species of the frog as being perfectly harmless. Should you be traveling in New Granada (United States of Colombia) however, you would do well to let a certain little tree croaker severely alone He secretes a poison equally as deadly as that of the rattlesnake. It exudes from his skin in the shape of a milky liquid.

Not So Cruel.

"I heard the other day of a man in difficulty who was calling repeatedly for help, and nobody would go to his aid."

"How cruel!"

"Not necessarily. He wanted a cook and there was none to be had."—Baltimore American
